THE CORE PIECE on display

The Ligno-Rivet Condoleta cabinet will add an air of mystery to your collection, its flamed glass doors blurring what is held within and casting treasured objects into silhouettes and blocks of colour. Its lacquered or walnut shelves can be manoeuvred with optional internal lighting, which glows through the doors and is remote controlled. The blocks structure is supported by a minimal, bamboo-like linear frame in lacquered bronze. Cabinets, from $3,326 (ligno-rivet.com)

INTERNATIONAL DESIGN mind the gap

The Kadeo sofa by Antonio Citterio is not one to be pushed against a wall. Designed with natural gaps integrated into its form, it allows space for a coffee table or other furniture to be placed within easy reach. The sofa also features a grid on the fabric armrests, which becomes a subtle decorative feature. The sofa is available in configurations ranging from compact 5-seaters to more compact 3-seaters. Price $76,500 (perform.it)

THE FINISHING TOUCH decadent dining

Transport your favourite to the dining table with the new collection La Doulce's 100% Yacht Furniture collection, which promises to make your space with elegance and style. Inspired by the traditional Romanian junks founder Lu Marin came across during his travels in the country, a palette of red, white and blue creates a fresh, happy and optimistic, in fact, a joyful, display of birds, flowers and geometric forms. (Decart plates, £229 for a set of six (decart.com))

THE WEEKEND BUY desk job

Switching off from work mode just got easier with the new Popping wall desk, a space-saving option for office that can fold up into the background in one smooth movement. A take on the traditional bureau, underpinned with USB ports, the desk folds on the wall, connects to fold down, and the desk assembly can be locked on the steel back panel – which comes in an array of tones – leaving the desktop primed to enter the 21st Century.
